Writing emphasis on mechanics: Challenger

1 Read and Write.

1. The name of Bob's friend is Eddie.

2. Do you know if he got the job?

3. Bob and his friends had fun at the park.

4. Mike did not know the rules, but Eddie did.

5. Can you save money?

6. He knows I am not late for the job.

718

Writing to express an opinion: Challenger

5 Personal Questions. Write sentences that answer the questions. Use words that tell about you.

1. How would you tell someone about your feelings? _____

2. What is the most boring job you can think of? _____

The other component: Composition

4 Write a Paragraph. Write a short paragraph about making your life more healthy. Use the questions below to guide you.

Do you eat foods that are good for you?

What foods could you eat that would be better for you?

Do you get enough exercise?

What new exercise could you do that would be good for you?

How could your life be better if you ate better food and got more exercise?

Review

- Use the integrated writing activities in the student books, but don't overcorrect. Be encouraging and supportive with student writing attempts-both mechanical and compositional.
- Encourage real-world, simple task writing such making lists, sending texts and writing emails.
- Language Experience activities are great for creating an 'authorship' feeling for the student.
